The Diversity in Psychology Organization of Graduate Students (DPOGS) Presents:

Diverse Speaker Series (Spring 2022)

Please email DPOGS at dpogs@psy.fsu.edu with any questions.

Dr. Sahana Mukherjee

“Road to Tenure: Connecting Research, Teaching, and Service”

Sahana Mukherjee, Associate Professor of Psychology at Gettysburg College, is a social and cultural psychologist. Her research has focused on topics of social justice with an emphasis on the role of cultural tools (e.g., museums, educational curricula) in the reproduction of privilege and disadvantage. She has utilized a diverse methodological toolkit—including qualitative and quantitative methods in the laboratory and in the field—to apply psychological theories to social issues in North American and South Asian spaces. Her teaching and mentoring philosophy is aligned with her research interests, and she strives towards promoting students’ sense of critical consciousness. Dr. Mukherjee has been recognized as an "Exemplary Diversity Scholar” by the National Center for Institutional Diversity at the University of Michigan. She earned her B.A. in Psychology, Sociology, and English Literature from Christ University, India, and her Ph.D. in Social Psychology from University of Kansas, USA.

Lunch with Graduate Students on April 5th, 12:00-1:00pm EST
Optional Registration Form: https://forms.gle/aGyw1FsCMz9Qv4kW6
Zoom: https://fsu.zoom.us/j/92371440144 (Meeting ID: 923 7144 0144)

Virtual Talk on April 5th, 4:00-5:00pm EST
Zoom: https://fsu.zoom.us/j/91637644926 (Meeting ID: 916 3764 4926)